三、閱讀測驗 (14%)

Do you know about the history of your favorite foods? Besides Indian people, who also cooked curry hundreds of years ago? In what countries were pizza and hamburgers made first? The answers may surprise you.

It is believed that the English found out about curry from people in India in the 1600s. In fact, the word "curry" can be found in an English cookbook as far back as 1377, and English people started eating curry before their ships sailed to India, but the dish was served only in rich families because of the high price of its spices.

As for pizza, this dish may be first made in Persia. The Persians were eating round flat bread with cheese in the 500s. That was about 1,000 years before the food became popular in Naples, Italy! How about hamburgers? Many people think they are American food; however, some stories tell us that they were from Hamburg, Germany. A German cook created the first hamburger in 1891, and four years later their soldiers brought the food to America.

It may be interesting to know where your favorite foods came from, but how they taste is more important! Why not just get some of them and dig in now?

 curry 咖哩 spice 香料 Persia 波斯 flat 平坦的 dig in 大快朵頤

- ( ) 28. What is the reading mostly about?
 (A) Different ways of using spices. (B) Surprising facts about foods.
 (C) Interesting stories about cooks. (D) Useful tips for cooking foods.
- ( ) 29. What can we learn from the reading?
 (A) The curry spices cost a lot. (B) The Indians taught the English to cook curry.
 (C) Americans couldn't taste hamburgers until 1891. (D) Pizza started to be popular in Italy during the 1,000s.
- ( ) 30. Which food was the most likely(可能的) made first?
 (A) American hamburgers. (B) Persian Cheesy bread.
 (C) Italian pizza. (D) English curry dish.
- ( ) 31. Miss Cheng asked her students to share what they thought about the reading. Which one is the most likely(可能的) from her students?
 (A) "The sharing of food with others is great, especially with those from different countries."
 (B) "I'm wondering where my favorite food came from. Did spaghetti really come from Italy?"
 (C) "It's amazing that the cook created more than 500 types of pizzas. He was really a big fan."
 (D) "India was ruled by the UK for many years, so it's possible the English learned of the curry from them."

Airline Food

Try to think you are on a plane and are served with curry rice and chocolate cake. You take your first bite, but something goes wrong with the food; the food doesn't taste that salty or sweet. The flavor is different from what it tastes on the ground. You might suppose that the cooks aren't so good at cooking, but the fact is not because of them but you.

How we notice flavors is through our senses of smell and taste. Sadly, these two senses are the first things to go out the window when we fly. Inside a plane 30,000 feet above the Earth, humidity is less than 12%, drier than the Sahara Desert, and the air pressure drops a lot. These two together make our noses not work correctly and then our sense of taste becomes weak; 80% of our taste comes from our smell. In the end, our sensitivity of taste buds to sweet and salty foods decreases by about 30%. Besides, the loud noise from the plane makes this even worse. Luckily, taste buds to other flavors, sour, bitter, and hot, don't change.

Food on airplanes tastes different for many reasons, so next time when you fly to your favorite country, make smart decisions on what you eat and drink.

 humidity 濕度    pressure 壓力    sensitivity of taste buds 味蕾敏感度    decrease 降低

- ( ) 32. Which idea is talked about in the reading?
 (A) Why food tastes different on planes.                      (B) How our taste buds work in the air.
 (C) What to eat when we fly.                                      (D) How terrible airline food tastes.
- ( ) 33. What does the phrase go out the window mean in the reading?
 (A) To stop being used.    (B) To become strong.    (C) To work successfully.    (D) To be very helpful.
- ( ) 34. What does "this" mean in the reading?
 (A) Humidity on the plane.                                      (B) The air pressure.
 (C) The flavor of the food.                                      (D) Cooking skills.
