Flightless. Kiwis belong to an ancient group of birds that can't fly, so how they arrived in New Zealand is not clear.

Nocturnal. Kiwis are active in the dark because the insects they like to eat move up closer to the ground during the night.

Bad eyesight but amazing smell. Having nostrils at the end of their beaks helps them smell their food. Their beaks are helpful, but they make loud noises when they sniff. And they can't be used to fight.

Huge eggs. Kiwis lay a bigger egg than almost any other bird in the world. Its size is about 20 percent of the mother's weight. Male Kiwis are known as "Kiwi Husband" because they keep the egg warm until the little Kiwi comes out.

The summer of 2017 changed Liam's life. He is a 10-year-old boy who didn't go to summer camp and promised his dad that he would keep himself busy. So he decided to make lunches for the homeless right outside his home. That day, Liam's Lunches of Love was born. Liam and his dad made sandwiches and all of them were packed into brown bags. Then, they hit the streets to hand out these 20 lunches. From that day on, Liam seemed hooked. He said, "Dad, can we do this again?" So they kept doing it, and each week the number of lunches grew a little bit more.

Helping others has been a big part in his family. From an early age, Liam saw his dad doing acts of kindness for others, like free work for elderly neighbors. One time, Liam said, "Dad, did you just tell that lady she didn't have to pay you?" His dad said, "Yes, she lives by herself and has no one to help. That money means nothing to us." Liam has learned to be kind from his dad.

So what's next for Liam? Liam has posted his plan on the page of GoFundMe, on which he has already raised $20,000, but he's still hoping the donations can go up to over $30,000. Then he will be able to make as many lunches as possible and then he will get a food truck and pay for the on-going cost in the future. on-going 後續的
